HENRI'S OPINION.

Predicts Goebel's Election By a Big Majority.

Attaches But Little Importance to The Work of The Lexington Excursion.

Editor Henry Watterson has given to the New York Times his views on the political situation in Kentucky:

"The election of Mr. Goebel as Governor of Kentucky is as certain as anything on this side of the unknown." That was the declaration of Henry Watterson at the Waldorf-Astoria.

What will the anti-Goebel movement amount to? the reporter asked.

"The anti-Goebel movement," replied Mr. Watterson, "is the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. Outside of that there is nothing to it whatever."

"As a matter of fact, there is no diversion in Kentucky whatever of the regular Democratic vote, and it will be rather increased by the John Y. Brown movement. I repeat that the Goebel ticket is as sure of its election as anything in nature."

"And what is your position, Colonel?" the reporter inquired.

"I am," he answered, "supporting the regular ticket simply as a fact. It is one machine against another machine. I simply support the Democratic machine."

"I have no stock either in the Louisville & Nashville railroad or in the Democratic organization in Kentucky. I have heard of the proposed consolidation of the Louisville & Nashville and the Southern railroad, but that has nothing to do with the political fight on hand."

"Is there any anti-Bryan movement in Kentucky?" Mr. Watterson was asked.

"There is not," he rejoined, "the least anti-Bryan movement in Kentucky. I am seriously thinking of discounting Mr. Bryan's peculiar views with respect to silver and going in with Croker in proclaiming him the greatest of living Americans."

He says it has never been the policy of the association to take part in political campaigns and that any visiting politician who might attempt to endorse or denounce any candidate for office would be sat upon in short order.

DEAD AS HECTOR

When His Body Was Found Where It Fell.

Another Murder at Kennedy Saturday Night Over a Game of Craps.

Another killing occurred at Kennedy Saturday night.

As usual the tragedy was the result of a game of craps.

A gang of negroes were shooting craps in Mrs. Harris' woods, when a row came up between Creed Perkins and Jake Williams and Williams whipped out a pistol and sent a bullet crashing into Perkins' brain. The man was shot squarely in the forehead and dropped dead in his tracks.

Then the negroes present, one and all, took to their heels leaving the corpse lying in the woods.

Some one reported the murder and Sunday morning the dead body was found where it fell.

The murderer admits the killing and made no effort to escape, but witnesses are very scarce and hard to find. Many negroes have left the neighborhood to keep from telling what they know.

Both slayer and slain were young negroes, farm hands in the vicinity of Hinsletown. Coroner Allensworth went to Hinsletown Sunday and held an inquest. Perkins was still in the woods where he was killed.

Press Scott was the only witness who could be found.

He testified that they had been gambling and Perkins had been cursing and threatening Williams, and had drawn a pistol and said that he would kill Williams.

The verdict of the jury was death from a pistol wound in the forehead, from a weapon in the hands of Jake Williams. Williams was arrested, and delivered to jail by the coroner, on a charge of manslaughter.

Perkins was an ex-convict.

GRIFFIN-BREATHITT.

Miss Kate Breathitt Weds a Paducah Tobacconist.

Mr. Michael Griffin and Miss Kate Breathitt were married at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, Postmaster John W. Breathitt, on South Main.

Mr. Griffin was a resident of this city for a year or two, being engaged in the tobacco business. About the first of the present year he moved to Paducah, where he is in the same business. He is widely known and universally popular.

The bride is a young lady of many attractions and admirable traits. The fortunate groom is to be congratulated upon winning her hand. They will reside in Paducah.

FERRELL-TALIAFERRO.

Brilliant Nuptials of a Kentucky Young Man and an Alabama Belle.

As foretold in a previous issue, the marriage of Prof. Chiles Clifton Ferrell and Miss Tennie Marr Taliaferro, of Birmingham, took place on the 16th inst. There were ten couples of attendants and the affair was an exceptionally brilliant church wedding. It was followed by a reception at the bride's home. They are now touring in the East and will be at home at Oxford, Miss., after Sept. 15.

ANIMAL COMMUNITIES.

Causes Which Govern Their Movements—An Elaborate Study.

Feeding, schooling, swarming, herding or flocking of animals presents a fascinating subject, and the causes which govern the various movements constitute an elaborate study. Recently the writer while duck shooting in a California tule swamp became so interested in the flocking of birds that he forgot the ducks. Before the blind extended hundreds of acres of tule swamp which resounded with the notes of the blackbirds. As the sun rose, there was a concerted movement among the birds, and as near as could be judged from 500 to 1,000 birds would rise, as though a signal had been sounded, and sweep on, filling the air with their sounds, then as suddenly drop into the tules on the edge of the swamp. This appeared to be the rendezvous, as though some general officer was appointing the birds to certain farms and ranches for the day, as from this spot other divisions, each composed of hundreds, rose to one bird, flying off in different directions—a proceeding which was kept up for several hours until every marsh within five miles must have received its flock of red-winged blackbirds.

Many of the birds appear to form in flocks at the time of migration. The Pacific brown pelican is prone to fly in flocks of from ten to fifty, while its cousin of the Gulf of Mexico is to some extent a solitary bird.

Among the fishes the swarming or schooling is practically noticeable. The herrings, sardines and their allies are always landed together, in all probability for mutual support, and the study of a school is an interesting pastime. The fishes seem governed by some impulse, and the greatest order is preserved; the school hurrying up, down, or to the side as a single fish. Yet this schooling is not their undoing. The writer has seen a small seal so intimidate a large school that they were concentrated into a ball of living fish not ten feet across. The seal swam around them with great velocity, preventing their escape, occasionally dashing into them with wide-open mouth.

The California barracuda is always found in schools, filling the water for acres. The Gulf of Mexico species is a solitary fish. In the Pacific the yellow-tail schools often cover the water for acres, then breaking up into pairs of threes. So with the horse mackerel; thousands frequently being found schooling.

Among the mammals the collection of vast numbers is best illustrated by the American bison, which was, and which now, owing to the most outrageous vandalism every perpetrated in a civilized land, is almost extinct. The bison fairly covered miles of country, presenting a marvelous sight.

The most extraordinary collection of animals to be seen in America are the fur seals which gather at the Pribilof islands in spring, at the breeding season, later going to sea, and south in February and March, as far as the Santa Barbara islands, several having been observed at Santa Catalina during the present year, a sea migration of many hundred miles being taken each year.

A very similar movement is seen among the penguins of the South Pacific islands. At times what is supposed to be millions of birds are found on the island; later they disappear completely, making an ocean trip to some unknown land or sea for unknown purposes and reasons.—Scientific American.

Sonorous Waves of Vowel Sounds.

At a recent meeting of the Académie des Sciences of Paris, M. Marage showed traces of the sonorous waves given by vowel sounds. They were obtained by means of "sensitive flames," that is, flames which are sensitive to sounds. They are serrated lines with a curious resemblance to the teeth of some animals. I and E give the smoothest lines, and O, OU, and A the roughest. M. Marage found that photographs speak badly because the sounds are not distinctly printed on the cylinder, and he recommends that the mouthpiece and tube of the instrument should be discarded, and the usual plate of glass, or diaphragm, replaced by one which does not give its own, or "proper," note. The impressions on the cylinder

TAG ON HORSEBACK.

How Some Quiet Nursery Games Are Played in Wyoming.

Here's a way to have a little exciting sport if you are a good horseman. Take several fellows on horseback—girls are not necessarily barred, but it is not in any sense a girl's game—ride into some field and play tag on horseback. The smaller the field the better the opportunity for displaying good horsemanship, as it will necessitate more tricks and quicker turning. The way they play the game out in Wyoming the one who is "it" has to touch only the horse, but this is more dangerous than touching the rider, for the horse, thinking you mean to strike, will often plunge and kick viciously.

Of course, polo ponies are the best for this game, but any horse if properly ridden can be made to understand the game in a short time. It is a fact that the horses very often get as much interested as the riders and will sometimes get very much excited and kick at an approaching horse to keep the one who is "it" at a distance. Cross tag and "pussy wants a corner" can be played in the same way, although none but the most experienced riders should try the latter, as collisions are very liable to occur. In Wyoming they even play prisoner's base. This was a favorite sport in the Green river country, but they have plenty of rough games in Wyoming that should never be brought east of the Rocky mountains. Tag on horseback is really a very good game, but great care should be taken at all times to prevent accidents.—N. Y. Herald.

And Leave the Skin Intact—Startling But Simple Trick.

To cut an apple in two or more pieces without also dividing the skin seems an impossible feat, but that it can be performed with comparative ease anybody following the directions here given will testify. Apples are so common a fruit that they figure on every well organized dinner table, and the little trick, when performed as an after-dinner feat, is really quite startling. An apple with a firm, smooth skin should be selected. Take a long, slender darning needle and thread it with silk or cotton. Linen thread is perhaps the best, as it is not so liable to break. Begin at the stem and take a long stitch under the skin of the apple, being careful not to go so deep that the point of the needle does not readily emerge. Take another stitch in the same direction, sewing right around the apple, exactly as you would cut it in half.

When the thread comes out again near the stem, take the two ends in each hand, cross them and pull steadily. The thread will, of course, cut the apple in two, leaving no mark on the skin, and without breaking it beyond the tiny holes made by the needle, which are quite invisible. By repeating the performance in different parts of the apple it may be cut into quarters and eighths, and on being peeled will fall into these sections.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

Contrast Between Those of City and Country Strongly Marked.

When we look into the question of expenditures for school purposes, and the salaries of the teachers, the superiority of city possibilities in education is very marked. The annual expenditures per capita for all public school purposes in cities of 8,000 population and upwards is $3.77; outside of such cities, $3.10. The contrast is even more strongly marked in the distinctly rural portions of the country. For instance, in the rural districts of the South Atlantic states the annual expenditure is only 93 cents per capita, and in the southern central states 91 cents per capita. In the cities in these two sections it is respectively $2.42 and $1.93 per capita. It is a remarkable and interesting fact that the cities of Montana head the list with a per capita expenditure of $6.55. The cities of Massachusetts come next with $5.06, and New York is third with $4.75. Alabama is at the foot of the list, with 96 cents per capita in the cities and 32 in the country districts. North and South Carolina and Florida are but little better.—Guntton's Magazine.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as not giving the relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were soon convinced that unless we obtained relief it would not be long before the child would be no more. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Rogers, Stamp-town, Gilmer Co., W. Va. For sale by R. C. Take several fellows on horseback—girls are not necessarily barred, but it is not in any sense a girl's game—ride into some field and play tag on horseback. The smaller the field the better the opportunity for displaying good horsemanship, as it will necessitate more tricks and quicker turning. The way they play the game out in Wyoming the one who is "it" has to touch only the horse, but this is more dangerous than touching the rider, for the horse, thinking you mean to strike, will often plunge and kick viciously.

Of course, polo ponies are the best for this game, but any horse if properly ridden can be made to understand the game in a short time. It is a fact that the horses very often get as much interested as the riders and will sometimes get very much excited and kick at an approaching horse to keep the one who is "it" at a distance. Cross tag and "pussy wants a corner" can be played in the same way, although none but the most experienced riders should try the latter, as collisions are very liable to occur. In Wyoming they even play prisoner's base. This was a favorite sport in the Green River country, but they have plenty of rough games in Wyoming that should never be brought east of the Rocky mountains. Tag on horseback is really a very good game, but great care should be taken at all times to prevent accidents.—N. Y. Herald.

And Leave the Skin Intact—Startling But Simple Trick.

To cut an apple in two or more pieces without also dividing the skin seems an impossible feat, but that it can be performed with comparative ease anybody following the directions here given will testify. Apples are so common a fruit that they figure on every well organized dinner table, and the little trick, when performed as an after-dinner feat, is really quite startling. An apple with a firm, smooth skin should be selected. Take a long, slender darning needle and thread it with silk or cotton. Linen thread is perhaps the best, as it is not so liable to break. Begin at the stem and take a long stitch under the skin of the apple, being careful not to go so deep that the point of the needle does not readily emerge. Take another stitch in the same direction, sewing right around the apple, exactly as you would cut it in half.

When the thread comes out again near the stem, take the two ends in each hand, cross them and pull steadily. The thread will, of course, cut the apple in two, leaving no mark on the skin, and without breaking it beyond the tiny holes made by the needle, which are quite invisible. By repeating the performance in different parts of the apple it may be cut into quarters and eighths, and on being peeled will fall into these sections.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

Contrast Between Those of City and Country Strongly Marked.

When we look into the question of expenditures for school purposes, and the salaries of the teachers, the superiority of city possibilities in education is very marked. The annual expenditures per capita for all public school purposes in cities of 5,000 population and upwards is $3.77; outside of such cities, $2.10. The contrast is even more strongly marked in the distinctly rural portions of the country. For instance, in the rural districts of the South Atlantic states the annual expenditure is only 93 cents per capita, and in the south central states 91 cents per capita. In the cities in these two sections it is respectively $2.42 and $1.93 per capita. It is a remarkable and interesting fact that the cities of Montana head the list with a per capita expenditure of $6.85. The cities of Massachusetts come next with $5.06, and New York is third with $4.75. Alabama is at the foot of the list, with 96 cents per capita in the cities and 52 in the country districts. North and South Carolina and Florida are but little better.—Union's Magazine.

HAS NATURE WARNED YOU?

Nature herself clud in the early parts of spring, blossoms forth trees and flowers causing the dependent chord to vibrate to this, the most delightful of all, springtime and how do you feel? Have you that tired shaky feeling the forerunner of Chills, Malaria and Typhoid Fever? If so, you must not mistake warning as it is an indication of sickness; avoid this; consult an old reliable doctor you nothing. Call on your druggist and procure a bottle of Dr. Carleton's German Liver Powder. Take one dose a day at bed time for six days; then follow by procuring a bottle of Yates' Chills Tonic, following the directions and after two weeks' course of these two great remedies, you will feel like the flowers look in the spring. Prepare yourself for the malaria or hot season when the atmosphere is full of germs. If necessary and when your system warns you, repeat the above. These remedies are stock and sold by Anderson & Fowler.

The silent watches of the night hang in front of jewelry stores.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as not giving the relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were soon convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Rogers, Stumptown, Gilmer Co., W. Va. For sale by R. C. The Taylor campaign will be opened at London, Laurel county, to day with all of the Republican candidates on hand.

The Henderson Gleason says there are only four Democratic dailies in the State west of Louisville and omits from its list the Fulton Leader, one of the staunchest party organs to be found anywhere.

Mr. Brown's proposition to withdraw if Goebel will quit the race in the midst of his campaign is nonsense reduced to assiniuity. If he wants harmony let him propose to join Goebel in submitting their claims to the Democrats of any county in the State and abide the result.

Kid McCoy, middle weight champion, was knocked out in the first round at Chicago Friday night by Jack McCormack, a "dub" pugilist of the third class. It is claimed by McCoy's friends that the "Kid" was over-confident and underestimated his opponent, who suddenly landed a knockout blow on the jawbone that ended the fight.

A "Fine Athletic Club for Women" is the leading article for the September number of Democrat's Magazine. There is no finer women's athletic club in the world than the one the Chicago society women have organized. An interesting account is given of the formation and resources of the club, accompanied by excellent photographs of the social and athletic departments, and of the president, Mrs. Philip D. Armour.

Editor Clarence C. Givens made a small fortune this year out of the Hopkins county fair. He rented the grounds and ran the fair as a private enterprise and the attendance beat all previous records, going to nearly 9000 on the best day. The present grounds have been sold and will be destroyed, but new grounds will likely be procured and larger and better buildings erected by another year.

Gov. Miles B. McSweeney, of South Carolina, was formerly a newsboy on the streets of Charleston. From newsboy he became a printer's devil and by a vote of the printers of Charleston was awarded a scholarship in Washington and Lee University, offered to the "most deserving young printer in Charleston." He could not pay his board and had to leave school after a few months. Returning home he acted as secretary of the Typographical Union and also of a Hook & Ladder Co., and when he had saved $65 went into business and started a country paper at Ninety-Six in 1879. He rapidly rose to prominence and became Governor in twenty years.

LOOK FOR THE LANDSLIDE.

Such crowds as are coming together to hear Goebel and Blackburn were never witnessed before in the history of Kentucky politics in a State race. In fact, for the length of time before the election the crowds surpass in size and enthusiasm the gatherings of the unparalleled year of 1896, and as the magnificent platform of the party is explained and the character of the opposition to Goebel made known the determination of the people to win becomes more intense and earnest from day to day. When Democracy gets her back up and clears up the lies and slanders that have been maliciously circulated on her splendid standard bearer, look out for landslides when the idea of November comes.—Nelson Record.

Mr. Brown has attempted to evade the force of the statements of Hon. Frank Peak and Dr. McCleskey that he told them July 7 that he would make speeches for Goebel, by a card in which he claims that he said he would speak in October. If he took the stump, Mr. Peak has given out another interview reiterating the truth of his statement and denying that any "iff" was used to qualify Mr. Brown's direct statement. Dr. McCleskey backs up Peak's statement with an affidavit. On the question of veracity Mr. Brown has been placed at a disadvantage.

D. W. Vanderveer, of Lincoln county, who was nominated for Commissioner of Agriculture by the bolters, is a fine old gentleman, but the nomination is almost as much of a joke as that of Capt. Throckmorton, of the L. & N., for the same office by the Republicans. Neither knows anything about the wants of farmers and their lack of knowledge of agriculture would fill several volumes.—Stanford Journal.

ALL AROUND MAN.

Harry McChesney Winning Laurels as a Spellbinder.

That Harry McChesney, the Democratic nominee for Superintendent of Public Instruction, is a good fellow everybody who knows him at all concedes. But that he is a natural-born campaign orator and story teller it has remained for this campaign to develop. Mr. McChesney is making a great bit wherever he speaks. Senator Blackburn heard him at Mayfield the other day, and before McChesney finished the Senator turned to Mr. Goebel and said: "Well, there's a man I'll keep busy until November." McChesney runs Col. W. P. Thorne, of Eminence, a close race on funny stories and campaign drolleries. If it is worth walking ten miles to hear Thorne, it is worth walking nine to hear McChesney and his anecdotes. He will be almost steady on the stump under direction of Senator Blackburn, Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee.

R. Q. Mills' Wealth.

Endowed with wealth of mind he has always been poor in purse. It will delight his friends and admirers everywhere to know that this lucky strike has assured comfort to his declining years.—Clarksville Journal.

AFTER BROWN.

Goebel Pays His Respects to Him at Wat Hardin's Home.

At Harrodsburg Saturday before an audience of 2,000 people Senator Goebel had some interesting things to say on the subject of the recent Lexington convention. Mr. Goebel charged that John Young Brown, the nominee of the Lexington convention for Governor, on the day that the Louisville convention nominated a candidate for Governor, and only a few hours before that nomination was made, procured the publication in the Louisville Times of an article designed to stampede the convention to Brown by suggesting him as the best solution of the situation then existing within the convention at Music Hall. This publication, he charged, was made at the special request of Mr. Brown, conveyed through the Hon. C. C. McChord, the Democratic nominee for Railroad Commissioner in this district. He also accused the ex-governor of insincerity in his present denunciation of the election law, pointing out the fact that Mr. Brown made speeches in behalf of Judge Hobson, who ran for Judge of the Court of Appeals as an avowed upholder of the election law, his election to the Appellate bench fixing the law firmly in the statutes by giving a majority on the bench in his favor.

Medical Education in Kentucky.

The State Board of Health of Kentucky gives notice to all concerned that it will hereafter refuse to recognize, as a basis for certificates to practice medicine, diplomas from any medical college which does not, in good faith, comply with the requirements of the American Medical College Association, the American Institute of Homeopathy and the American Eclectic Medical College Association, respectively, both as to preliminary education and four years' course of study. This means that no school that graduates three year students will be recognized in this State hereafter.

The Board provided an examination for three year graduates of the present year, as many of the students had attended such schools in ignorance of its advanced requirements, but found this course unsatisfactory, a large per cent of the examinations indicating incomplete preliminary education as well as imperfect medical training. This standard for the State of Kentucky was made and promulgated in 1891, to take effect this year, but is again published that schools patronized by Kentucky students, and future graduates expecting to practice here, may fully understand our requirements.

Very respectfully,
J. N. MCCORMACK, Sec'y.

Why It Failed.

Of the Roberts local option bill the editor of the Murray Ledger, who seems to thoroughly understand it, says: "The bill with the silly unconstitutional features eliminated was all right, but it had passed in its unconstitutional form last session the prohibition extremists would have had the distinguished honor of having been the cause of whisky being sold in every county and hamlet in Kentucky for two years, or until another legislature met to make new laws. Fanatics and cranks never realize that in attempting to better good laws they are often made worse it."

As Charlie Barker Sees it.

Mr. Chas. E. Barker, of Pembroke, writes to the Owensboro Messenger: "Since writing you some time ago, I have looked around a good deal, and I am now confident that Mr. Goebel will get more votes than Mr. Bryan got in 1896, more than Cleveland ever got, and more than any other man in the state could have gotten had he been nominated. The 'Brownies' have no following at all here, only some men who bolt annually—who kick simply because they have the kick-sinical inclination. Mr. Goebel will meet a hearty welcome here in Christian county."

Bob West Goes Gunning.

Mr. Robt. A. West, deputy constable, shot at two negroes who were caught in his field one night last week stealing "roasting ears." He heard one of them cry out, but both escaped. The next morning a trail of blood was discovered. The case was loaded with bird shot.

SUMMER CATARRH

Catarrh of the bowels, because it is most prevalent in the summer months, is called summer catarrh.

It surprises many that bowel trouble is catarrh. Dr. Hartman's books make this plain. Write to the Peru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for them. They tell all about catarrh and how Peru-na cures it wherever located.

"I had chronic diarrhea for fifteen years," writes Mr. T. B. Miller, Grand Prairie, Tex. "I tried many medicines and doctors in vain. At last Peru-na was recommended, and it relieved and cured me at once."

Mr. John Harting, 633 Main St., Cincinnati, O., writes: "My wife and myself took your Peru-na for chronic diarrhea and it cured us. No doctor or medicine we tried before helped us."

Mr. Edward Wormack, Leebetter, Tex., writes: "Peru-na for bowel troubles is unequalled by any medicine or medicine I have ever used. I owe my life to Peru-na, and I always recommend it to those suffering as I was."

Mr. John Edgerton, 1080 Third Ave., Altoona, Pa., says: "I suffered from dysentery for three years. I took Peru-na and am now well."

Mr. Haskell was visiting a brother there and the wedding was quite a romance, he having only met the bride a few days since.

Chicken Language.

Chickens speak in a language that human ears learn readily to comprehend. A fuzzy toddler six hours out of the shell has five distinct calls. The first and loudest of them is the lost note, uttered when it loses sight of its mother or finds itself out in the cold. It is loud and very shrill: "Pee-ee-ee! Pee-ee-ee! Pee-ee-ee!" The second, the hunger note, is as shrill, but more plaintive, running somewhat thus: "Yeap! Yeap! Yeap-ee-ee!" As soon as eating begins it changes to a sort of satisfied chattering: "Wit-wit! Wit-wit! Wit-wit-wee!" After eating the chicks grow sleepy, and cry to be covered. The note is somewhat like that of hunger with a peculiar tremolo, breaking in the middle: "Yee-pl-leep! Yee-pl-leep!" does not fully represent it, but comes as near as the limitations of vowels and consonants admit. The fifth note, the thir-r-r of fright or astonishment, is the quaintest of all. This chirr develops at last in the grating call of warning, at sound of which from their mother even the youngest scatter and scuttle to cover. Anything, a bird, a kite, even a small passing cloud, sailing in the sky overhead, will evoke this warning cry. Let one hen sound it, every other will take it up. Often the alarm is a false one, but centuries of hawks have impressed upon each feathered mind that danger "cometh out of the air" and they govern themselves accordingly.

Everybody knows how hens cluck to their broods, but it may be news to many that though a hundred hens may be clucking in the same inclosure, the voice of each will be individual and unmistakable to her immediate family. A chick just out of the nest may not be able to discriminate, but let it tattle for a day and it is past making mistakes. Even more wonderful is the hen's ability to differentiate her brood from all the rest.

Upon finding food a hen calls her chicks somewhat thus: "Co-co-co-co-co-co-co-co-co-co!" The rooster calls his wives about him to share in some dainty with nearly the same notes, but deeper and more resonant in the beginning and running at the end into a high treble. There is something clownish in his cackle. He cackles only to express a pained astonishment, or else by way of chiding the hens, with whom cackling is a favorite diversion, quite independent of the matter of egg-laying. A rooster, especially a peacock or one of Spanish breed, has a wonderful variety of crows. By means of them, indeed, he runs the whole gamut of expression—hope, fear, defiance, triumph, love, hate, rage, vanity and a fine, ineffable conceit.

It is the hens with families, though, that are the true barnyard gossips. Any fine day, outside molting time, you may see them standing in groups their heads close together, chuckling and chattering like so many blackbirds, or else wallowing in light earth, pecking lightly as they scratch and wallow, and evidently finding it good sport to throw dust well over each other.—N. Y. Sun.

THE HANDWRITING EXPERT.

His Inspection of a Disputed or Suspected Document.

When a piece of disputed or suspected handwriting is submitted to an expert his first care is to note its general appearance. He observes what seem to be the characteristic habits of hand in the writer, the style, shading and connection of letters, their relation to the base line of the writing and other significant points. The same process is applied to specimens of the alleged writer's genuine hand.

The next step is to disintegrate the writing so that letters repeated in both specimens may be compared in detail when placed side by side. In this way divergences or resemblances, which might not appear to the eye in the body of a paper, are made perfectly clear.

If any of the letters show signs of hesitation or retouching, as frequently happens in forgeries, they are photographed through the microscope. By this enlargement retouches or tracings are brought out so that they can be seen plainly by the untrained eye.

Having made his examination of the whole writing, step by step, the expert summarizes the results, numbering corresponding parts and calling attention to discrepancies or resemblances as they occur. By this process his conclusions are made perfectly clear in all ordinary cases to anybody who reads his report. In exceptional cases, such as court trials, he may go before a jury with blackboard and pencil and show exactly how a forger wrote a certain letter as well as the way in which the person whose writing habitually formed it. If his deductions are accurate, the results, presented in this graphic manner, usually are convincing to all intelligent and unprejudiced observers. It is one of the advantages of graphology that, ordinarily, its conclusions may be made as plain as the nose on a man's face.—Daniel T. Ames, in Ainslee's.

A LITTLE SURPRISE.

The Mortification of High Social Ambition.

A certain Mme. S.—, a woman of high social ambition, returning from the country to town one day in a railway carriage, fell into conversation with a well-dressed but quiet and reserved man who sat on the seat opposite.

After awhile she chanced to mention impressively that she had observed that Countess L.— was a passenger in the next carriage, and she found that the gentleman to whom she had been talking was intimately acquainted with her. Of the countess' establishment and circle of friends he told her a great many interesting particulars.

So pleased was she with the talk on this subject—proving her new acquaintance, she thought, to be a man of high position in society—that she ventured to make what was even for her a bold stroke, and, asking him for his card, politely requested the pleasure of his company at her next soiree. The train arrived. Mme. S.— alighted on the platform with the countess. She looked to see the familiar recognition she expected between the lady of rank and her new friend. But what was her surprise when the countess, holding up her finger, beckoned unceremoniously to him and said:

"John, see to the luggage!" He was the countess' man servant.—London Tit-Bits.

COMFORTING CONSOLATION.

Art of Letter Writing Before and After Marriage.

"You don't write to me as you used to," she said to her husband, who had returned from a business journey out of town. "I meant to write," he answered, remorsefully, "but I was so busy I really did not have the time." "And yet, before we were married, I used to get over so many letters." "Well, I wasn't so much occupied then with looking out for bills on the 1st of the month, my dear."

"Sometimes you would write things to me that were really poetic. But I suppose it is the old story. It is very seldom that sentiment survives matrimony."

"Now, look here, Amanda," he replied, "you ought not to talk that way. I suppose you do miss those letters about journeying together along the road of life and having our pathway strewn with flowers, and if I ever get a few minutes' leisure I'll try my hand at it again, just to please you. But don't forget this—the little compositions I dedicate to you every now and then in my check book may not mean as much as those others, but they are a great deal more trustworthy."—London Tit-Bits.

BROWN'S PROPHECY.

Extract From His Valedictory Fours Years Ago.

Four years ago in this city, says the Frankfort Argus, at the conclusion of Gov. Brown's valedictory on retiring from the Executive chair, he spoke as follows:

"Never since I first voted have I ever faltered to the party call; and I want to say, although we are today participating in the inauguration of Republican supremacy—in the name of Democracy, in the name of that party I loved and cherished in youth and manhood—I tell you Democracy is not dead but sleeping. (Great applause.) Not dead but sleeping; and four years from now—take my word—we will rally and we will come from the lanes and the valleys and the brush, and you will on this spot witness the inauguration of the supremacy of the party. (Great applause.) You will be called back here to witness the supremacy of the party in this glorious State. I bid you adieu."

ARMLESS EDITOR.

Aaron Smith Operates a Typewriter With His Toes.

Aaron Smith, editor and manager of the Mt. Pleasant, (Tex.) Times Review, is the only armless editor, of a newspaper in the United States. Notwithstanding this he turns out "copy" as fast as any veteran in the business, and manipulates a typewriter with a rapidity calculated to arouse the envy of any stenographer in the land.

He writes at an ordinary desk by holding a pen with his toes. He uses a typewriter by punching the keys with a pencil held in his mouth or with his toes, and makes excellent speed in this manner. He lives in a cozy little home which he recently bought, and is apparently as happy as any man one could find. He is not gloomy, as one would expect to find him, but is, on the other hand, lively, witty and contented. Mr. Smith is married and has one child.

ALMOST A BURGLARY.

By Fred Small, Jr.

MRS. DRISCOLL had a mind of her own. Some uncharitable people went so far as to say that if she had not had so much mind her husband might have been living to-day. He that as it may be said and left her sole mistress of a handsome property, with no one to oppose her will.

She adopted one of his nieces, and loved her as well as she could love anyone but herself.

The niece grew up a winsome lassie, and had lovers, as maiden ladies do. Luckily her choice was her aunt's as well, and the day was set for her marriage with Harry Winslow without opposition, the only condition being that they should return to Mrs. Driscoll's home after a brief wedding tour.

"Well, Kate," said the stately lady, the day before the wedding, "everything is ready, and I must say that I never saw preparations more complete—not even for your uncle's funeral, poor man! I always meant to give you a handsome marriage portion, so get your hat—we'll go to the bank."

What girl would delay under similar circumstances? The carriage was speedily ordered, and soon stopped before the bank.

Except the bank officials, there was in the building only George Travis, one of Kate's discarded suitors, who was getting an insignificant check cashed. Mrs. Driscoll went to the counter to see an opportunity to flatter her sales, as her worthy husband had been accustomed to say.

Drawing her check book she smilingly wrote a check for $2,000 and presented it to the cashier.

"Payable to Miss Kate—a marriage portion, I presume. 'Ah, very generous of you! Miss Kate, I congratulate you,' said the cashier. 'Shall I make the new book in your own name?'"

"She wants no book—at least not yet," retorted Mrs. Driscoll, sharply. "When I give a thing I give it. I want good, solid money for that check—bright, yellow gold."

"But—why—do you live fully a mile from a neighbor. Have you—do you think of the temptation?" he said, hesitatingly.

"Did I ask your advice?" snapped Mrs. Driscoll. "I am able to take care of my own property, and, if it will not break the bank, I want it in gold."

"Certainly, madam. My conscience is clear if you wake up to find yourself murdered to-morrow morning. This bank can pay ten times that sum at sight, madam," was the dignified reply, to which Mrs. Driscoll listened in curt silence.

The cashier went into the vault, closing the door behind him. George Travis, having counted the money received on his check, went out without a glance at the two ladies.

"There! Now, I reckon, Travis begins to realize what he has lost," nodded Mrs. Driscoll.

Kate blushed slightly. "But, aunt," she said, uneasily, "wouldn't it be better for me to take a book with the money left to my credit? Harry will not be here until to-morrow, and—think of the risk! It is unsafe."

"How long is it since I came to be told my duty by a miss of 18?" breathed Mrs. Driscoll, scornfully. "What a coward you are! If you don't want the money, say so, and I'll let it remain where it is. If you do want it, hold your tongue, and help me take care of it until I can give you both into Harry Winslow's keeping."

Further conversation was prevented by the cashier's return. "Count it!" commanded Mrs. Driscoll.

One by one the golden coins were counted under her admiring eyes. "There, that is money! That is like a wedding gift!" she ejaculated, in a satisfied tone.

"Better let me give you a receipt for it and put it into the safe to-night," suggested the cashier.

"Put it into my safe to-night?" was the sharp order to the bank porter. The man obeyed and watched with a puzzled face the carriage out of sight.

"She beats all I ever saw," he said. "I don't wonder her husband died."

Meanwhile Mrs. Driscoll returned home well satisfied with the world and herself in particular. She had had her own way.

"I shall not put this under my pillow as I generally do," she said to Kate. "This box is harder than feathers. I shall put it under the corner of your bed."

"Thanks, aunt! Iron is as soft as feathers for me to lie on," laughed Kate.

"You needn't lie upon that side of the bed at all," was the cool reply.

"There's a man in the kitchen as says he's had not a mouthful to eat for ten days," said Nora, the servant, appearing at the door.

"The farm is only a mile further on. Send him about his business," answered her mistress.

Nora went out. Soon a figure clothed in rags went by the open window. The man turned and shook his clenched fist at the astonished lady. "O'fallings! The impudent thing!" she gasped.

"Oh, but, aunt, I'm sure he has heard all that we said about that horrid money!" faltered Kate.

Mrs. Driscoll's face told the concern which she felt, but she turned her back upon her niece and took up a book.

one, and said the letters of the alphabet backward.

She heard the village clock slowly strike the hour of midnight, then one, two and three.

Kate's apartment was dark, but the moon shone dimly into her aunt's room just across the hall.

Suddenly a form stood in the doorway, then vanished within.

Was it the tramp? Was that something in his hand a knife?

Kate stole softly through the doorway, listening breathlessly. Then she darted into a small room, near Mrs. Driscoll's door.

Steadily the door was noiselessly closed, and a man stood so near her hiding place that she could hear his hurried breathing.

The faint odor of chloroform told her the door was closed.

What if he gave an overdose? Kate loved the stern woman, and, notwithstanding her timidity, that thought nerved her to action.

He threw her violently aside with a muttered oath and fled. But he left a generous lock of hair in her hands.

Her head struck a corner of the door in falling, and she was down when she awoke to full consciousness of what had happened.

Womanlike, she rushed to see if the iron box was still safe. It had not been disturbed. Then she threw open the door of Mrs. Driscoll's room.

The lady was unconscious, but breathing evenly. Kate's courage returned.

Silently she opened the window, letting the fresh morning air draw freely through the room. Then she crept into her own bed to wait developments.

Before sunrise Mrs. Driscoll awoke. "Mercy on us!" she screamed. "No umbrella, instead of a corkscrew."

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder.

AN AFRICAN LAKE.

Interesting Report of an Exploration to Tropical Mountains.

At a meeting of the Royal Geographical society in London an interesting report by Mr. Poulett Weatherley on Lake Bangweulu, in Central Africa, was read. The explorer circumnavigated the entire sheet of water. His party reached the lake in August, 1896, and established a camp at the southeastern corner, 3,765 feet above sea level. The shores of the lake are absolutely free from shells and the water has no depth. He sounded in many places, but never found more than 15 feet. Its surface was usually still, a very strong wind raising the smallest sea. It appeared to be nothing but a flooded district. Mr. Weatherley thinks it was formed by the water from the great watershed of the Tanganyika plateau. The overflow is checked to the west and southwest by a rim of rock, but the east and southeast has no such barrier, and in that direction there is a vast swamp from 20 to 40 miles in breadth. The Liposochi and Luena to the north and the Chambeze to the east are the chief contributors to the water supply. With 25 men he explored the island of M'bwala, about 20 miles long and 1,000 yards from the shore, and proceeded toward the outlet of the Luapula, ultimately landing at Kiri island. After a stay of some time on the island, which they found low, beautifully wooded, well peopled and cultivated, they passed on to Kisi island. This they found not a bit like the island depicted on the maps. It presented a most peaceful, prosperous sight, and in common with the other two islands, Kiri and M'bwala, it reared a good number of sheep, the broad-tailed kind, and goats. The people appeared to live a life of complete peace and contentment. Proceeding in a northerly direction, the party reached the extreme north-northwest corner of the lake. Continuing their journey along the coast, they discovered a narrow peninsula stretching north and south, having on the west a sheet of water about three miles in width, which extends the whole length of Bangweulu north and south, but is always separated from the lake by the isthmus. There was cotton everywhere, but not in large quantity, and the bark-cloth tree abounded.

The Automaton chess player is a wonderful thing. It plays a perfect game inside its limitations. But once outside the automaton moves the Automaton is a failure. Much of the practice is as limited in its way as the moves of the Automaton at chess. No medical man can move with success outside his experience and training. For that reason the local doctor, often given up as hopeless a case which is quite curable when greater skill and experience are brought to bear.

It is the so-called "incurable" and "hopeless" cases, which come in such numbers to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for treatment. Men and women with weak lungs, obstinate coughs, emaciated bodies and fevered cheeks have found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the true elixir of life.

"The blood is the life" and the "Discovery" by increasing the activity of the blood-making glands, and restoring to healthy action the digestive and nutritive organs, places the entire system in a condition to throw off disease. There is no alcohol, opium, or other narcotic, in "Golden Medical Discovery."

Mr. Chas. Hunsicker of Lenox, Mass., writes: "I have never felt better in my life than I do now. I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and I think I am doing finely. I do not cough now and I can sleep like a school boy. I think I will have never had much faith in them; but you must change my mind about 'Medical Men,' as I have been told that they are not to be trusted and by three doctors besides, and received no credit. I think your medicine is the only medicine for me."

Democrats are delighted over the success of their efforts to get the national leader to visit this county. Goebel and Blackburn will come the last week in September and it is probable Bryan's date will be about the middle of October.

The state campaign committee recognizes Christian county as a doubtful county and it will be made a battle-ground and no effort will be spared to carry the county for the state and legislative ticket.

The visit of Goebel and Blackburn will be made an all day affair with an out-of-doors speaking in some suitable place near town. This rally will be followed by the Bryan speaking in about two weeks as calculated at present, though the exact date of Col. Bryan's visit to the state has not been announced.

The Committee Meeting.

The Democratic County Committee, to meet the first Monday in September, is expected to take important action looking to the nomination of a candidate for representative. There are five gentlemen, who are either candidates or in the hands of their friends, and the committee may be asked to recommend one of the number for nomination. Every member is expected to be on hand.

DEATH OF CRIT CANNON.

Had Been an Invalid Since Childhood—A Great Sufferer.

Crit Cannon, aged 17 years, a son of Mr. Wm. Cannon, died at the home of his parents three miles east of the city Saturday afternoon. He had been an invalid since childhood and was a great sufferer. The remains were interred at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in the family burying ground.

PURCHASED BY THE I. C.

The St. L., I. and E. Road Changes Hands.

The Illinois Central has bought the St. Louis, Indianapolis and Eastern Railroad, the purchase price being $790,000. The I. C. will probably build from Switz City, Ind., the terminal of the road bought, to Louisville, Ky., thus giving it an air line from Effingham to Louisville.
